From Homeowners to Factories: Matching the Right Ad Platform to Each Vertivo Customer Segment :

Since Vertivo Elevators is a Bengaluru-based homelift/passenger elevator company (individual homes, apartments, commercial buildings, factories/warehouses) selling a high-ticket, considered-purchase product, here's how the main platforms stack up for you beyond Meta:

1. Google Search Ads / Local Services Ads — best for immediate, high-intent leads
People searching "home elevator installation Bengaluru" or "elevator company near me" are already in buying mode. Google Ads taps into search intent, meeting users right when they're looking for what you offer, offering high-intent traffic and a range of formats including search, display, and local service ads good for immediate conversions like lead forms and call-ads. This usually converts better than Meta for big-ticket purchases, though cost-per-click is higher. We-Viral blogs

2. Google Performance Max / YouTube Ads — best for consideration + retargeting
Elevators are a visual, trust-driven product — video ads showing installation, safety features, and finished homelifts work well to build confidence with homeowners and builders before they enquire. Also great for retargeting people who visited your site but didn't submit the form.

3. IndiaMART — best for B2B/bulk buyers (builders, contractors, factories, warehouses)
IndiaMART is a B2B marketplace where buyers actively search for suppliers and business products, tending to attract procurement managers and business owners looking for repeat, volume-based purchases — a strong fit for your "Commercial Building" and "Factory/Warehouse" segments. Indiamart delivers roughly 3-5% conversion for manufacturers/suppliers at an annual cost of around ₹28K-60K. VedainEcomdigest (blogs)

4. JustDial — best for local, individual-house/apartment leads JustDial skews toward local, often one-time service inquiries, making it stronger for sectors like real estate and repair services — good match for your "Individual House" and "Apartment Building" segments, and it's already indexing home-lift searches in India. Vedain (blog)

5. LinkedIn Ads — best for commercial/B2B decision-makers
Useful if you want to target architects, builders, and facility managers directly for commercial building and factory projects — smaller volume but higher-value leads.

Suggested mix: Keep Meta for broad reach/retargeting, add Google Search + Local Service Ads as your primary high-intent lead channel, list on IndiaMART for commercial/bulk enquiries, and JustDial for local homeowner leads. Add LinkedIn only if commercial projects are a priority — it's low-volume but well-targeted.
